About the AADDSS

The Atlanta Association for Dermatology and Dermatologic Surgery is a not-for-profit society of dermatologists practicing in the greater Atlanta area, dedicated to promoting the highest possible standards of clinical practice, education and research in dermatologic medicine, surgery and related disciplines; promoting the public interest relating to dermatology; and providing a forum for the discussion of medical and practice-related problems.

Since its founding in 1963, the AADDSS (formerly known as ADA), has grown to a membership of over 200 board-certified or board-eligible dermatologists (and dermatology residents-in-training) from the greater Atlanta area. The breadth of interests and experience of this group is immense and unparalleled since it represents physicians in daily clinical medical and surgical dermatologic practice of adults and children, young doctors in training, dermatopathologists and academic researchers.

Annually, the AADDSS provides four 1 hour accredited CME dinner meetings and two accredited 6 hour hospital meetings. The meeting format includes a variety of clinical vignette presentations, short abstracts of important research work or new therapies, guest lectures and seminars, and patient viewings. Nationally renowned as well as local member speaker(s) are objectively invited to present topics based on the needs of the membership and the attendees are passionate about this forum of learning and congregation.

The AADDSS cares about the dermatologic health of Atlantans. To this end, the Association monitors and works to positively influence the issues that affect the health of all Atlanta residents. In addition, the Association supports various events held throughout the State which have been developed to encourage sun protection and general skin health.

The AADDSS can work with your company to create the perfect marketing opportunity.
